DELAWARE'S FARMERS' DAY

Over Five Thousand People were Present and Made Inspection

NEWARK, June 17.—Farmer's Day, at the Delaware College Experimental farm, which is now one of the main features of commencement week, attracted a crowd of visitors today estimated at nearly 5,000. It was the largest attendance that has ever visited the farm on any one day since it was purchased by the state several years ago.

Visitors started to arrive at the farm as early as 8 o'clock, and from then until noon there was a continuous row of vehicles and automobiles. There were at least 500 teams and more than 100 automobiles on the grounds and every train brought hundreds more from Wilmington and points down the state. As an indication that the Delaware farmer is progressive and is keeping abreast of the time, nearly one hundred came here in their own automobiles today. They came from all parts of the state, and many were accompanied by their wives and children. There were also a large number of strangers from Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The fact that the weather was ideal for such an occasion made the day especially enjoyable. Although hot in the sun there was a refreshing breeze all day and the women and children spent much of the day on the spacious lawn under the trees. Professor Harry Hayward, director of the farm, and his assistants had arranged an interesting program, which was carried out without a change.

A UNIQUE WAR HISTORY

Brady The First Camera Reporter

"The Civil War through the Camera" is the name of an interesting account of the late Civil War from the pen of Henry W. Eason, professor of History in the Ohio University and illustrated by recently discovered photographs taken by Matthew—"the first camera reporter"—as he has been styled.

This history is a brief, well written account of the great Civil War, and the photo-illustrations by Brady give it a new and peculiar value.

It is a superb work not only highly instructive, but of unique character from the fact that for the first time in the world's history actual battle scenes were caught and reproduced by the camera. We give below an account of the singular loss and discovery of these remarkable photographs, and the yet more remarkable manner in which they were originally taken by Brady in itself a romance.

The cost is only 10 cents a number. Until late in the 50's photographic work had to be done with a daguerrotype, which printed only one picture.

Just before the Civil War the whole art of photography was revolutionized, when Scott-Archer, in London, invented the wet-plate process which made it possible to make a number of prints of each photograph.

The foremost photographer in New York City at that time was Matthew Brady. His "gallery" included thousands of the most prominent Americans. He charged $10 for a life size portrait.

When the war opened he knew that before him lay tremendous possibilities. He at once took advantage of the "wet plate" discovery. At once he determined to be the first in the history of the world to accompany armies to the field of war with a camera—to immortalize great operations to get in a flash of light a whole dramatic story that the slow pencil in the hand of the artist could never catch.

By hard work with Lincoln and Stanton he secured special protection from the government for his big, clumsy cameras and his valuable outfit. Together with the United States Secret Service under Allan Pinkerton, he set off with his men, his wagons and his cameras, and for four years he and his followers braved death and handed down to this generation and undying record of the most stupendous conflict the New World has ever seen.

These are the photographs from which has been made up the marvelous panorama that has been secured in this city for readers of this newspaper exclusively.

Adventures on the Field of War

Brady penetrated to strange places and saw strange sights. Favored by the Secret Service, he and his daring followers penetrated everywhere.

Mr. John C. Taylor of Hartford Connecticut, said of Brady not long ago, "I met him frequently. He was a man of artistic appearance and of very slight physique—about five feet six inches tall. He generally wore a broad-brimmed hat, similar to those worn by the art students in Paris. Twenty-five years after the war I met him again, and, talking over the taking of these photographs, he said, 'No one will ever know what I went through in securing these negatives. The world can never appreciate it. It clung the whole course of my life. Some of these negatives nearly cost me my life. Many indeed were his narrow escapes. Once—after Bull Run—Brady, in his linen duster, wandered in the woods three days fearing capture every minute, and armed with a broadsword thrown him by a fleeing Zouave.

Another time—at Fredericksburg—the Confederates, across the river, emptied his bulky cameras, glinting in the sunlight like cannon, and opened fire on them. Only the marvelous "Brady luck" saved the great artist's life.

The Photographs Carry You Back 50 Years

Across the chasm of the years, you look into the guns of the enemy and into the faces of friends.

Clear and sharp are these photographs with a brilliancy the photographers of today do not get. Experts explain that no plates are made nowadays capable of receiving the deep impressions that made Brady's figures stand forth in such vivid relief from the photographic print. He had a keen eye for artistic effects, with all an artist's intuition of that would make a good picture. His portraits show the souls of men through their outward lineaments like a painting of Rembrandt's.

It was about this time that John N. Stewart, Past Senior Vice Commander, Dept. of Illinois, G. A. R. met Brady and talked with him about the old days, when Stewart was a telegraph operator with the Army of the Potomac and Brady was aiming his cameras at the battlefields. Stewart asked Brady if his own negatives were still in existence, Brady replied, "I don't know."

In the meantime, the government's collection was not receiving proper care. Many warnings were given to the Department of War that its negatives were undergoing chemical action which would soon destroy them. Biersadt, as far back as 1882, warned the government that unless the photographs were reproduced in more permanent form they would be lost. The government, however, decided that the cost was prohibitive.

It is the main scene collection, which lay forgotten in a garret for so many years that has finally been discovered, and that serves as the basis of the Brady War photographs. Almost miraculously preserved in perfect condition, they furnish mute testimony to the bravery and genius of the first camera-reporter, Matthew Brady.

The Brady War Photographs and Eason's History of the Civil War combine to make one of the intensely interesting historical and photographic souvenirs of the conflict between the North and the South. And this is "The Civil War Through the Camera," for which Every Evening has the exclusive distribution rights in Delaware.

FARM NEWS AND VIEWS

USEFUL THINGS TO KNOW

Spray early and late.
Ducks prefer soft food.
Whitewash the hen house.
Concrete tanks are superior.
"The early bird" easily keeps down the weeds.

Great Britain's wheat fields cover 2,000 acres.
Too much sun for young chicks is as bad as too little.
The manager must supply the brains for the cow machine.

Don't wait for the weeds to appear before you begin cultivating.
Have everything neat and sweet about your milk and butter business.

The owner of the small farm flock is the man most likely to neglect dipping.
An alert carriage and a bright eye are necessary in a perfect carriage or saddle horse.

To teach chicks to drink, sprinkle a few grains of feed on the water for them to pick at.
The great majority of farmers do not know the value of the harrow, or if they do, they do not use it.

Teach the lambs as early as possible to eat grain in a lamb creep to fit them for the early market.
If a horse sweats easily take particular pains not to let him stand out in a draft or drink too heartily.

It is expensive economy to do without a separator where cream is sold or butter made from five or more cows.
The best way to get rid of tuberculosis in dairy cattle is to follow the old precept about an ounce of prevention.

The little pigs seem to be wonderfully keen in detecting the small holes in the fence through which they can escape.
Success in the dairy seems to be most all "g"; separator, silo, scales—then the following letter, "t"; test, is a close second.

Have all cattle that come into the herd tuberculin tested and then have a well ventilated barn that is kept scrupulously clean.
If a sow that has lost the use of her legs is in good flesh, it would be best to slaughter her for meat, as chances of recovery are poor.

The poultry business requires study and constant attention, the same as any other business. First efforts are rarely ever successful.
One of the silo arguments that appeals to every stock owner is that there is no such thing as cornstalk disease to worry the silage feeder.

The stomach of the little calf is very sensitive and easily ruined. Nothing will do it quicker than keeping the animal confined in a wet dirty pen.
One of our readers recommends cream of tartar for chickenpox; one tablespoonful in soft feed for each twelve fowls, two or three times a week.

In growing a heifer for the dairy muscular vitality is wanted rather than fat, and is obtained very largely from the skim milk portion of its diet.
Filth on eggs under the sitting hen should be washed off as soon as noticed. This is one of the little things that helps toward getting a good hatch.

This is the time of year when corn should be fed sparingly to keep hens laying and to ward off diseases to which the overfat bird is susceptible in warm weather.
Keep the best calves.
The silo spells success.
It is never too late to prune.
The Jersey is a popular breed.
It takes brains to raise dairy cows.
Beware of frauds in buying trees and bushes.
Half way business doesn't pay in breeding stock.
No animal suffers so much from neglect as the sheep.
There should be a good scratching post in every pig pen.
Eternal vigilance is the price of everything good in the stock line.
See to it that the work horse is well carried during the heavy spring work.
Comparatively few people realize the importance of drinking water for hogs.
Clean the calf pen often and bed it with a liberal supply of dry straw or ottener.
The silo seems to be edging mightily near the cornerstone of successful dairying.
If you can't afford to buy a good bull get one with your neighbor, each paying half.
Fresh pasture is so relaxing that care must be taken that the cows do not lose flesh.
Many a farmer has drawn the greatest measure of prosperity from the dairy cow.
When spraying, if showers come and wash off the poison, spray those trees a second time.
Careful selection of the stallion is essential to the production of a uniform herd of colts.
A fumigation with burning sulphur will get rid of both vermin and disease germs in the poultry.
The chickens like rape. A little patch of it near the barnyard will keep them busy and contented.
Chickens will not die of gapes if they are fed proper food and plenty of it, and are kept free from lice.
Not only the flavor, but the keeping quality of butter is injured by keeping the cream until it gets very sour.
Usually, a careful dressing of market fowls will draw a little premium from the buyers. It pays in the long run.
The quality of the egg can readily be established by a ration that will add sweetness and good flavor to the contents.
The sow should be in moderate flesh when bred but when safely in pig she should have a strong ration to build her up.

Kitchen aprons of the same material as your wash dresses always look neater than those made of some other stuff. Remember the next time you have a wash dress made. Even a white dress looks prettier with a big white apron to match.

Have a pair of tweezers handy to aid in pulling threads out of the canvas when you are marking towels with cross-stitch embroidery. Any woman who has suffered from sore fingers after doing much work of this sort will recognize the value of this suggestion.

The danger of slipping when getting out of a bath tub will be greatly decreased if a nuckle handle is screwed to the wall at just the right height to make it convenient to be grasped for support. It is especially helpful to anyone suffering from rheumatism.

Do not add receipts to your book until you have tried them; then you will know whether or not you really care to keep them. A letter file is a good receiver for the clippings until you have tried them first.

Do not throw away colored pictures if you have no children in your home. Keep a big envelope in the drawer of the library table and slip into it any pretty picture that comes to the home. Often the advertisement is worth saving after the type matter has been cut off. When an envelope is filled address it to some child you know or to a children's hospital.

Squares of hemmed cloth kept in the kitchen or pantry drawer will be found useful to put over bowls or pitchers containing soup, milk, etc., or to throw over a cold roast before putting it away. Of course the cloth should be fastened snugly over the dishes and a box of rubber bands with a pile of cloths will be found more convenient than string for this purpose.

Should you be annoyed by the great amount of steam which usually accompanies the cooking of cabbage, onions, etc., take a deep lid, or turn the lid of your cooking pot upside down and put cold water in it. As the water becomes heated empty it out and put in fresh water. This will not only keep the steam from your kitchen but will lessen the odor of cooking throughout the house.

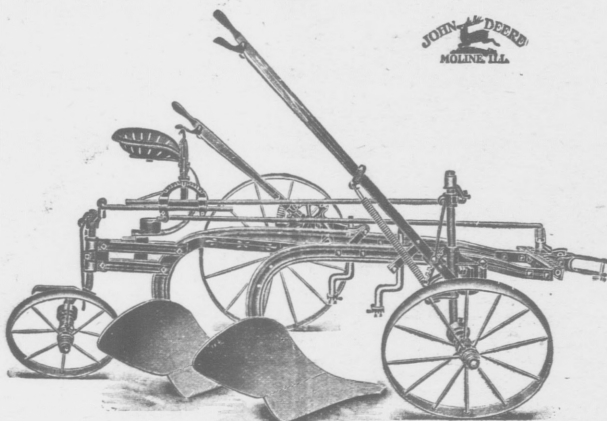

Mend your boys' trousers by machine to save both time and labor. These tears never pull out if properly done, and the patch shows very slightly. Take a piece of material as much like the trousers as possible and baste under the torn or worn place put the work under the machine needle and beginning at one end stitch backward and forward across the tear, being careful not to turn back until well over the worn place. Stitch as close as you find practical. When finished, cut out from underneath any unnecessary material and press well.

The resourceful woman has learned that by adding to her work she lessens it, that is by preparing a larger quantity of food that is keepable, which takes no longer than to prepare a small amount, she saves herself much work.

Salt will remove a fresh ink stain from a carpet.
Fish is very unwholesome when not well cooked as well as unpalatable.
Window glass should not be cleaned with soap as this treatment renders the glass cloudy. A little borax or ammonia may be added to warm water.
To boil cabbage select small heads of them rather than large ones as they will be more delicately flavored.
When pork is to be cooked with cabbage put the meat in to cook first and when it begins to grow tender add the cabbage.
Before putting fruits away in your cellar see that the cellar is clean and well ventilated, with no musty smell or mold on walls or shelves.
Where wild fruits are abundant and sugar scarce, many kinds may be dried.
It is always better to have an upright piano placed against an inside wall, if possible, as the outside walls of any house are apt to gather moisture and this will in time, effect the piano.
In cleaning out the bureau drawers and closets, do not throw or give away underclothing that is much worn; by cutting the buttons and seams off, these pieces make the very best of dust rags, mop cloths and cloths for cleaning woodwork or paint.
Patent leather shoes and slippers will last twice as long if you wipe them off occasionally with a soft cloth dipped in olive oil. Keep the cloth in a small tin box, one that has a cover and the oil will last a long time.
If your last year's Panama straw hat is yellow and soiled, wash it in a warm castle soap lather to which a few drops of ammonia has been added. Rinse well in tepid water, using a soft nail brush, and then rub with a soft clean rag until the hat is thoroughly dry.
In running the sewing machine for an extended time, the work will be much lighter if a pad of old carpet is made to fit the treadle. Attack with strong linen thread so that it will not slip around.
If one is obliged to keep meat for any length of time before cooking wash it with cold water to which a tablespoonful of vinegar has been added. Rinse well in tepid water and spread it over the meat in a pan or on a platter. Remove all the onion and rinse the meat with cold water.
Paraffin is rubbed on the heels of stockings will cause them to last much longer.
Orange fritters are as delicious an accompaniment to broiled or fried ham as apple sauce is to roast ribs.
A beautiful and dainty salad is strawberry and lettuce with mayonnaise. In a nest of sliced lettuce leaves arrange a few berries and a tablespoonful of mayonnaise made without using mustard.
When using a cream which refuses to whip, add a fourth of a teaspoonful of the vinegar to three-fourths of a cup of cream; stir well while added, and then whip as usual.

THE DEADLY LORIMER

Like the fatal blight of the fabled upas tree, Lorimer has shed a deadly contagion upon the heads of every one of these boodle-approving senators who rallied to his defence.

So 20 or more of these apologists of his infamously bought seat, have lost their senatorial heads at the hands of the indignant people of their several states, or like Aldrich, Crane, and a few more, have walked out of Washington with their heads under their arms to save their constituents the trouble of their decapitation.

And now that the senate has been scared into ceasing to block the people's demand for the election of senators by their own votes, that important reform will soon become by the vote of every state, the XVIIth article of the Constitution and this disgraceful traffic come to an end.

The better day is now sure when a seat in the highest branch of the National legislature, will no longer be the purchase of vulgar millionaires, but the honorable prize of brains and character; then manhood, not money bags, will be exalted.

The Senate has long been chiefly an exclusive club of millionaires, some of them the servile tools of Special Privilege, bought in the shambles of politics and serving always themselves and their owners instead of the people.

Then let us all thank God that the besmirched Lorimer is to be at last kicked out! Mayhap, Stephenson, Guzenheim and others, will also some day get their like deserts.

HISTORY MAKING AT CHICAGO

At the time we go to press on Friday, the situation at Chicago has not sufficiently developed for us to know certainly what the final result will be.

We prefer, therefore, to reserve our comments thereon until the stirring, confused events now taking place in the Republican National Convention shall have become definite history.

That from out this fiery, seething struggle of opposing interest there will be born at last something like "a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness" political and economically, we devoutly believe; that it marks a return to the real representative government of the people by themselves which the fathers won with blood but which the Special Interests have cunningly filched away, we also believe; and that the ultimate outcome of it all will be a larger, truer liberty for the great mass of the common people whom Lincoln avers the Almighty especially loves, thank God, we cannot doubt!

YOUNG WOMAN TAKES LIFE

DELAWARE CITY, Del., June 19th.—Miss Edith Martin, aged 22 years, committed suicide this morning, by shooting herself through the heart. Miss Martin has been living with Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Eisenberger here. She has no relatives or parents. Her foster-father, B. F. Sipes at Harrisburg, Pa., was notified at once.

She attended a meeting of the W. C. T. U. at the Donald Rooms, last night and seemed to enjoy herself and be in a happy frame of mind.

Warren R. Keck, a boarder at the Eisenberger home, called her at six this morning and received no response. However she did not come down stairs and at 7:45 this morning, when Mr. Eisenberger went upstairs with her aunt's breakfast she went to Miss Martin's room and found Miss Martin lying across the bed with the revolver near her hand.

Dr. Walter W. Ellis was immediately called and pronounced death as being instantaneous.

Coroner Chandler was notified at once. The body was taken to Wilmington this afternoon and the autopsy was made on Thursday. Neighbors heard the shot but paid no attention to it.

THE LADY MOUNT

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM

A stirring, romantic tale of the brave young Black Seigneur who held such power over the peasants along the coast of France in the days of the Revolution, of his love for the Governor's daughter and how he wooed and won her.

Do not miss this brilliant, spirited narrative, which we will run as our next serial. You'll enjoy every installment.

Our Clothing Is Of The DIFFERENT SORT

The Clothes we sell not only have that hand-tailored dash and style, but the material, finish and general workmanship are of the best. The hidden parts, the inner linings, etc., are of the same character as the outside. Our label in your clothes means more to you than any brand you are familiar with.

For Our Label is our Guarantee to You that absolute satisfaction must be had or money will be refunded without any unnecessary red tape. Our Clothing will stand any test, for durability, for style, for individuality, for workmanship and for material. We claim and are anxious to prove that our Clothing for the same prices is superior in every way to what you can get elsewhere.

Hot Weather Wear

EACH season has its own special needs in the way of dress. Summer is, perhaps, the most difficult season of all in which to keep at once well-dressed and comfortable, too. So any store that can provide for its customers in every season—especially in Summer—goods not only fitted for the season, new and stylish in cut and make, but the coolest and lightest for Hot Weather wear, is quite abreast of the times in a business way. Fogel & Burstan have made this special study to provide for their patrons just such appropriate goods and fabrics fitted in every way to meet every Hot Weather want, and which will, while looking neat and stylish, also give perfect comfort.

Hence, right here at home we can thus scientifically meet your every Summer want—a thing never so thoroughly done before in Middletown.

What do you want for Hot Weather that we cannot supply you with? Is it light, comfortable Lingerie—Dresses and Waists? Muslin or Ribbed Underwear? Linen Suits or Coats? Thin Dress Goods of all kinds? Hosiery of every sort and color? Shoes in various colors, styles and leathers? Colgate's Toilet Articles of every description? Suit Cases, Hand Bags and Trunks of every sort? Kodaks to amuse you? And lastly, everything to meet the wants of your Men and Children? We have them all, style and quality, too, and for prices that beat the city every time! We need not say more. A visit to our well-stocked store will convince you that we speak truly.

If You Were an Expert, What Car Would You Buy?

The time has passed when automobiles can be sold to you on their appearances or claims. This is a day when you and every purchaser must be shown what the car for which you pay your money will actually perform; what it will do. Beware of an automobile salesman who attempts to beguile you with a pleasing story. Tell him to show the goods and prove to you that his cars are worth the money. Find out whether his car is a real car or only an assembled automobile built to sell.

You have a right to your money's worth, but it is up to you to see that you get it. Deeper than all appearances, there are a few expert tests which ought to be applied to every car.

Who makes the car? Is it an assembled car or made from top to bottom by one manufacturer? What kind of a guarantee is on it? Does the manufacturer respect his own product with a real guarantee, or does he want you to take the chance? What do parts cost you and how conveniently can you get them? How many cars of this make are in service and how many are giving satisfaction? Questions like these go deep into the heart of the case, and if you put them rigorously upon any car you will find out with a certainty whether or not that car is worth its price.

We are selling Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars because we know that, dollar for dollar, their equal is not sold in the market today. The records of many thousands of cars in all kinds of service have convinced us absolutely. Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars are built to run, and because they run they sell. If we cannot prove to you under the most searching test that Studebaker cars are absolutely the best automobile values in the market, we do not want your business; but we can prove it, and your neighbors who drive these cars will tell you the same thing.

Be an expert when it comes to buying a car. You can, by getting from us some further ideas on real tests of an automobile. Clip the attached coupon and send it to us now because we have something new to tell you which you ought to know, whatever car you have in mind.
